On Monday, November 10, Ambassador Zalmay Mamozy Khalilzad, the U.S. Permanent Representative to the United Nations, spoke on “Global Challenges Facing Our New President” at the first inaugural Fall Plenary Lecture held in Wilson Hall Auditorium, hosted by the Institute for Global Understanding.

According to Dr. Rekha Datta, a professor and the Chair of the Political Science Department, and the Director of the Institute for Global Understanding, the event was a joint effort of the Office of the President, Office of the Ambassador, Deputy Assistant Secretary, Mitch Shivers & his office, Dr. Saliba Sarsar and the Office of Academic Programs Initiatives, IGU (Dr. Nancy Mezey, Associate Director of IGU, and Kathleen Laflin, Graduate Assistant), Steve Mervine and the Instructional Technology area, Petra Ludwig and the Office of Public Affairs, The Outlook, University Photographer, Facilities Management, the Copy Center, Aramark, and many individuals who worked together to put everything in place.

Dr. Datta also said that President Gaffney and former MU trustee and alum, Mitchell Shivers helped secure Ambassador Khalilzad for the lecture. She said, “America’s challenges and opportunities in the world are not restricted to any one region of the world, but the focus right now is more on Iraq and Afghanistan. Given that Dr. Khalilzad has been active in the role of ambassador to both these countries over the past few years, and since he is currently our representative to the United Nations, he would be able to bring unique policy perspective to share his insights about these conflicts.”

In his lecture, Ambassador Khalilzad focused on the troubles of the Middle East and South Asia, and how the new administration would have to deal with these issues. The Ambassador first said that it is critical for President-elect Barack Obama to quickly install the correct people on his staff to establish and implement his policies. He also said that the new administration must look at the current policies and decide on whether or not they will remain.

The politics from what we’ve learned throughout society.” He explained that we learn our values from family, friends, the media, music, and the internet. We are not born hating people but we make this type of terminology acceptable behavior by buying Fifty Cent cds and using his derogatory words.

“The internet seems to be the number one recruiting tool for hate groups to reach out. Ages 12-21 are the most impressionable because this demographic spreads, worries me. My grandchildren are teenagers and they don’t know how they are being contacted and by who. We are naïve even if we know the dangers.”

The power point explained that five years ago, there were 500 organized hate groups in the U.S. Currently there are 888. There are 34 hate groups in our state alone including Black Separatist, Christian Identity, General Hate, KKK, New Confederate, Neo-Nazi, Racist Skinhead, and White Nationalist.” These people are right next door to you, they

Richie Moriarty Jr., a Political Science major, and McCain supporter believed, “the silent majority was hiding in Virginia.” As the results came in from Florida, New York, and Pennsylvania, Moriarty joked, “It has now been confirmed that the silent majority is hiding in California.”

Mayor Cory A. Booker of Newark was one of the first to address the crowd of supporters. Bookers said, “We’re a great country and we stand for the same things Barack Obama stands for like hope and idealism. Now get excited because the Obama train is coming.”

Senator Bob Menendez sent the pro Obama crowd into a frenzy starting his speech saying, “Yes we can and yes we did.” After the crowd settled down Menendez went on to say, “Tomorrow a new day dawns in America.” He then went on to congratulate his fellow Senator Frank Lautenberg who the Republicans argued was too old to maintain his position in the Senate. “I can not keep up with the silent majority.”

Hate and Bias

Monmouth University is taking action in the fight against hate and bias. A group called the Alliance for a Diverse Campus was created, along with a campus wide Affirmative Action group. It lays out policies, procedures, regulations, and a way to report complaints of hate and bias. In February, there was a full day diversity training program, in which you can apply online.

Lori Lichter, a counselor in the LCAC, was touched by the presentation. “I know we see that it’s a bias crime, hate, isn’t a crime...this (presentation) is meant to touch on these issues. Just try walking in another person’s shoes. I’ve met a Mexi- can male who was shot 12 times in the head for simply holding a bag of black, for gay men who were beat up outside the boardwalk for simply holding hands, and I was called a homo. I saw bodies as they fell off the buildings, I walked around through the ashes of my friends. Hate crimes terrorize entire communities. Terrorism is the use of force or the threat of force to intimidate, generate fear, sense of fear, not only in the victim but also the whole community,” D’Amico said.

In Maple Shade, New Jersey, a man has started his own biz in his basement. He is the president of a group of the uot of hate paraphernalia including arm bands, and even Doc Martin shoes, a common shoe among members of hate crime groups. He added his own spin to the shoe though. There are swastikas in the soles of the boots so if someone is walking in the snow it will leave a mark, or it could even save someone’s life. The shoelaces also show the sector those members are in.

The next event to be hosted by the SAB was to be a performance of “The Today Show” which was sponsored by the Student PIRGs New Voters Project, in a press release earlier today. PIRGs New Voters Project, in a press release earlier today. PIRGs New Voters Project, in a press release earlier today.

Youth vote surpasses senior vote for first time

Young voters came out in large numbers this election cycle, with at least 2.2 million more votes than in 2004, according to data released by the Center for Information and Research on Civic Learning and Engagement. This increase represents a growing trend for young voters. The grassroots-rooted enthusiasm present on hundreds of campuses across the country appeared to have paid off, from Facebook pages to text messages to viral videos. The young voters share the electorate surpassed that of voters over age 65 for the first time ever, with the youth vote comprising 18 percent of the electorate (compared to the 16 percent comprised of voters over 65).

The primary lesson of this election is that when you pay attention to young people, they will turn out on Election Day, said Sujatha Jahagirdar, program director with the Student PIRGs New Voters Project, in a press release earlier today. Jahagirdar, whose project aimed to energize the youth base, said campaigns and politicians have historically not paid attention to young voters, and over the past few election cycles there has been “mutual neglect.” This election, she said, saw an erosion of that phenomenon.

We start from the premise that it’s useful to have all of our citizens engaged really that’s the only way a democracy can work,” she said, asked about the importance of getting voters within the system. “How can you have a democracy when a fifth of our population is not engaged?”

``It was hilarious. Her jokes were so funny, and so was her delivery and many of her facial expressions...I could relate to her stories about the road races because I am a runner.”

The Boston native said that she has also traveled west, including Las Vegas and Hawaii with fellow comedians Fred Willard. McFarland has been doing standup comedy for approximately 10 years. At a very young age, she was living in the spotlight. From taking dancing lessons to model- ing as a child, McFarland was performing and enjoying it.

“Performing in general I love- it’s my passion.”

McFarland was performing and enjoying it. Being a contestant on “The Biggest Loser” was a good but challenging experience for McFarland, who said she lost 85 pounds on the show’s first season. She said it was hard work while being in front of cameras and other people, but was thankful that she was healthy.

“It has been the biggest event in my existence,” McFarland stated. Freshman DJ McCarthy thoroughly enjoyed McFarland’s comedic performance and a number of her jokes.

“It was hilarious. Her jokes were so funny, and so was her delivery and many of her facial expressions. I guarantee that everyone cought like she does. I learned to not get so frustrated.”

Phi Sigma Kappa wins Delta Phi Epsilon’s Annual Lip Sync

Delta Phi Epsilon’s annual Lip Sync took place in Pollak Theater, Wednesday, November 5, from 10-11:30 p.m., to raise money to benefit the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation.

Lip Sync is an annual event which the sorority hosts, allowing any Monmouth students to participate by putting on a performance of their choice, and “lip syncing” along to a certain song.

Each year it is a tradition for the seniors of Delta Phi Epsilon to perform for the charitable cause, who did a dance routine this year.

The girls danced to a mixture of songs from the Spice Girls, TLC, and Whitney Houston.

Students from different organizations at Monmouth took part, including the MU Dance Team, Phi Sigma Kappa, Sigma Tau Gamma, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Sigma Pi.

Delta Phi Epsilon member, Teriann Chiappardi is the Vice President of Programming and was in charge of putting the event together, but the entire sorority contributed by selling tickets for the event, and organizing the night.

The hosts for the night were Delta Phi Epsilon member Shana Fitzgerald and Sigma Pi member Sal Fure.

Delta Phi Epsilon President and Senior, Amanda Klaus, said, “I was really proud of our organization and the support we got from the other organizations. There was a lot of campus involvement, not only from the Greeks, but a lot of people showed up like the football team - everybody was supporting one another.”

Amanda added, “Lip Sync is kind of like a less strict talent show, and is more for fun so people feel comfortable enough to get on stage and enjoy the night.”

Senior Nick Colonna was the DJ for the night, and also helps out with many of the other Greek events. “We thank him for all the support he gives the Greek community and we can’t thank him enough and will miss him when he graduates,” added Klaus.

The Delta Phi Epsilon chapter from Seton Hall came to visit and support Monmouth’s chapter which the sorority was much appreciative of.

The winners of Lip Sync were in third place, Sigma Pi, second place, the dance team, and first place went to Phi Sigma Kappa.

PSK performed their version of “Bohemian Rhapsody.” All the proceeds from the night went to the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. The other philanthropy Delta Phi Epsilon donates money to the National Association of Anorexia Nervosa and Associated Disorders. There will be an event in the spring which will benefit this foundation.

The sorority will be selling plastic bands, similar to the Livestrong bands, throughout the semester benefiting the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. They are available to buy from any member of Delta Phi Epsilon for 2 dollars each.

Tyler Havens, Assistant Director of Student Activities for Fraternity and Sorority Life, commented on the event by saying, “It was one of the best displays of community that I have seen in three years. It was nice to see all members of the audience enjoying the acts and having fun with the event.”

Senior and member of Delta Phi Epsilon, Marina Wagner, added, “Lip Sync is by far my favorite event because I think it’s so entertaining. People are so precious and creative with the dance moves they come up with.”

Helping You Help Others

When’s the last time you stopped to hold a door for somebody who was carrying something heavy? Or pulled over to give someone with a flat tire a hand? Or assisted a friend who was struggling with a topic you excel at? These seemingly small gestures make a world of difference.

We live in a world of over six billion people, but so few of them take the time to lend a hand to one another. This presents a bit of a problem. Those who can help, do not therefore; those who need help remain helpless.

This is not to say that nobody helps their fellow man. It is really something we should all practice. Helping others is so important. As far fetched as it might sound, sometimes helping others can make the difference between life and death. A small food donation can feed a starving child and a few kind words can lift the spirits of a depressed person.

With Halloween past and Thanksgiving just around the corner, the holiday season is upon us. For some this means big family dinners and gift exchanges. For others it means lonely days and cold nights. There are thousands of homeless men, women, and children in this country, and millions living below the poverty line. For whatever reason though, it should not make a difference; if these people are in need of help and it is up to those who are living comfortably to lend a hand.

One the flipside, sometimes you are the person who needs help. One of the hardest things to do in life is to ask for help, especially if it is something you would not necessarily take it. A lot of times, those who are most in need are the people who are the most resistant to being helped because they are very proud people or they do not want other peoples’ pity. The truth of the matter is that by resisting peoples’ good will, you are not only hurting yourself, but them as well. You hurt yourself, because you are being offered something you need and refusing in spite of your need and you are hurting the people trying to help by showing them that their kindness is unwanted and even offensive.

The key to helping others and being helped is selflessness. You must discard your feelings and sometimes it is even harder. Those who can help, do not therefore; those who need help remain helpless.

The Presidential election that was held on the November 4th, 2008, represented the end of the most highly anticipated election in U.S. history. While the election of 1789 did represent a monumental change in U.S. circumstances, it did not have nearly the impact that the just concluded election had. There are several reasons for this, for instance, for all intents and purposes George Washington ran unopposed, and while he was a national hero, at the time the American people really did not have a say in the election. This is because at that time the electoral college was not dependent on the American People. In the election of 2008 ev- eryone felt like they knew the can- didates personally.

In another sense my opponent said last week, “The structure and live- hood of American citizens is still fully intact.” This is fully untrue, we are running into a fully new set of circumstances in this country. First, our current economic sys- tem is flawed, Capitalism works if the people are not ultra greedy; at this point it's safe to say that a lot of these big corporation CEO’s are only concerned with how much money they can make. This is destroying Capitalism and leading to a full scale col- lase of the economy (this is one of many reasons for the collapse of the economy and to believe that this is the only matter is foolish.) Second, we realize now more than ever that we are consuming resources far beyond our means; and if we do not do something to curtail our consumption we are going to eventually deplete the earth of its ability to give life, of the economy. If these issues were not enough, this election lead to the first Afri- can American president, we now know, provided that no extra cir- cumstances come into effect, pres- ident-elect Barrack Obama will be the United States president for the next four years, and during that time a lot of radical changes are expected to happen. In addition to this there is no greater time to have the monumental change Pres- ident-elect Obama has been talking about. As stated before a lot of so- cioeconomic institutions are reach- ing the end of their usefulness, and a new system is ready to be born. If we do not want to look at this election for the political ground being broken it is equally incred- ible to think of its social values. This election broke the race and gen- der barriers, for the first time it was possible that a women could be the vice president. These represent only two of the several political/economic institu- tions that are failing, includ- ing healthcare, social security, etc. The epic institutions that threaten to collapse at any moment, the American people are fearful that another Great Depression is right around the corner, and one of the two presidential candidates would be the hero of the day that would steer us away from what certainly looks like the collapse of our current economic circumstances in this country. We are running into a fully new set of circumstances come into effect, pres- ident-elect Barrack Obama will never have had the opportu- nity to run. The election of 1789 came after a highly anticipated and enduring war which gave the American colonies freedom from all restraints the Brit- ish had imposed on them. Ground-breaking and unimag- inable, the small population of colonists was able to de- stroy the Britain, the current war because the Ameri- can had imposed on them. Ground-breaking and unimag- inable, the small population of colonists was able to de- stroy the Britain, the current election broke the race and gender barriers, for the first time it was absolutely possible that the president could have been a women, and then for a long time it was possible that a women could be the vice president. “The definition we currently hold for what a president is was created and nurtured by George Washington, our first president. The founding fa- thers believed it was impera- tive to avoid any notion of possible dictatorship and thus choose a man who would lead the nation in the right direction.”

STUDENTS GET A TASTE OF THE SWEET LIFE AT THE EUROCHOCOLATE FAIR

OVERSEAS CORRESPONDENT

Now that I have found the secret bakery I was on a mission to find other delicious goodies in Italy. I enquired about the Eurochocolate fair that I have heard about. Someone was telling me it was Oktoberfest but with chocolate.

After hearing that statement I booked a train ticket to Perugia and headed north to find this amazing fair. Can you say CHOCOLATE! That is all I saw for miles. This little town was covered in tents filled with different chocolate companies and museums of chocolate. I was seriously in awe. Now I know that each week I tell you guys about my new paradise; the first week it was Florence, the next was Paris and finally the secret bakery! But this is truly paradise; this time I won’t change my mind.

I walked around all day and bought so much chocolate that I had to purchase two backpacks just to carry it all. Seven hours later I headed home on a chocolate rush. I got home and immediately started studying for midterms.

This last week was quiet, everyone had there heads in there books studying for the first time in six weeks. But there was a little bit of a problem. We all had booked vacations for fall break, so we could not get our minds off where we would be spending the next week.

The boys were so excited to spend an entire week in Spain. They were telling me about their plans to head to Barcelona and Madrid.

They already got soccer tickets, and made reservations at the famous club Pacha.

Some of the other girls had plans for Ireland, Paris and Spain. They could not wait to experience EuroDisney in Paris, and to tour the old castles of Ireland.

Carianne was telling me about all the claddagh rings she wanted to buy for her sisters and her friends back home.

My plans consisted of London and Paris then to fly home a little early to meet up with my boyfriend’s dad and go to Sicily. I was so excited for my trips, that I could barely study!

Midterms ended and I headed to London! In London I went to the London Eye, Big Ben, Westminster Abby, Buckingham Palace, the Absolute ice bar, the aquarium, and every day we had fish and chips! I loved London, I never thought I would, but it reminded me of home! Besides that fact that we could go around speaking English and everyone understood us, there were also all the American brand named products there.

They had Diet Coke, Doritos, and bagels. I went around the city staring at the amazing sites and drinking as much Diet Coke as I could!

You would be surprised how much you miss the little things at home. But you do not miss them that much, because of all the other great things around you.

Now I am back in Paris, where I have to trade my Diet Coke in for Coke Light. I am not complaining only because of all the beautiful sites I get to see and experience in Paris.

I even have plans to go to EuroDisney this week but we will see how much time I have to fit everything in. So for now I will have to say au revoir.

Oh my god there is Toblerone, can we go?” My friends started to laugh saying that I was acting like a little kid on Christmas. But for the people who know me, this was better than Christmas.

CHRISTINA SCE' can be spotted dealing out the beverages every Monday Night

If you’ve never heard of it before, whiskey is a drink that is widely considered across the page, have no fear because it will be continuing even after the whiskey is made at Superbowl XLI. Stewart’s will be here to nourish our hunger all through the big game and bloody seasons as well.

In fact, Pinheiro plans to expand his evening endeavors into other days of the week. Starting this completely hammered out, he would like to add “Wild Wednesday’s,” with either live music or a DJ. When asked why he comes here, Senior Steve Wendruff says, “This place is just the perfect environment for a fun atmosphere to hang out with friends, food, and beer.” But Stewart’s doesn’t just cater to the over 21 crowd. You’re not going to have to sit behind and watch all your age-friends go out and have a good time without you. Although, Stewart’s kickschy atmosphere brings to mind memories of a 50s diner to drink.

Items include floats, deserts, ice cream, soft drinks, and of course the all-intoxicating wings. “I want an all around crown of a good group,” states Pinheiro. Last week, along with an age-mixed group, members of the police department, Emergency Medical Services, and firefighters showed up for a bite. Christina Sce, a waitress at Stewart’s and Senior at Monmouth, has been with them for 3 months. She can usually be spotted behind the counter taking orders and serving the beverages. A fun working environment for all Stewart’s employees is when I see most of my friends.”

Drive, hitch, walk or bike, but for as long as Stewart’s is open “Don’t eat meat!” Get some fries. Don’t (or can’t) drink beer? Order a float, a wine glass (to name only a few), and tickle your palate, and there are few to no excuses for not a float. So grab some friends, and make my Monday night routine yours.

the same or be changed. Ambassador Khalilzad touched on how the new presidential staff must deal with the issue of the economy and the constraints its will have on policy, the problems in Africa regarding the civil war, the violence against women, and the conflict in Darfur, Africa, Russia, and China, but most importantly resolving the issues in the Middle East.

Some of the concerns that must be resolved in the Middle East Ambassador Khalilzad spoke about covered the grand strategy towards the region, including how to deal with the extremists and the terrorists, the critical issue regarding the Israel-Palestinian conflict, and the Afghanistan/Pakistan conflict considering the terrorists in those areas. The biggest issue that Ambassador Khalilzad pointed out was the need for the President Obama to improve relations between Afghanistan and Pakistan, and the need to appoint a high level presidential envoy to facilitate the operations between these nations. He said that violence in the Middle East must be reduced and the problem of sanctuaries in Afghanistan and Pakistan must be eliminated. The U.S. Ambassador to the United Nations emphasized that the top priority for the Obama administration must be the Afghan/Pakistan conflict. He said that this consisted of getting the local government to deal with the central issues of Afghanistan, focusing on the security of people and newly established government in the Middle East, and creating an environment in the situation while normalizing the country. Ambassador Khalilzad said that the new presidential staff must figure out what type of engagement and pressure it will take to get Iran to move on the isu

A lesson from our society to ask the ambassador questions. One faculty member and several students asked questions covering the ethnic politics in South Asia, the importance of stability and democracy in Iraq, and the challenges of the new administration in dealing with the American troops in the Middle East. President Gaffney comment on the event and the need to make progress on the engagement of the student body at the lecture saying, "I thought the event was great. Two things shocked me. I knew he was going to be upfront on his opinion and be a good speaker. But I didn't expect the questions. I was very proud of the students, their questions were fantastic. Even though the event was pushed back at the last minute from 1:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. before a meeting that Ambassador Khalilzad had to attend at the University, there was still a record crowd of over 400 listeners, most of whom were students in Wilson Auditorium. Dr. Nancy Mezey, Associate Director of the Institute for Global Understanding said, "This was a huge success. Not only did we have a great turnout, but the ambassador lay out some of the key issues, particularly in the Middle East and South Asia, that the new administration will have to address once Barack Obama is in office."

According to Datta, the Institute for Global Understanding (IGU) would continue the tradition of the event and the high attendance. "I thought the lecture was informative and I am glad I attended," Datta said. "It was a great event. Two things shock me. I wish them all the best. I think the election of President Obama has really galvanized a lot of positive feelings towards the United States around the world. He comes at a time of many changes and challenges and I wish him and his team well."

Obama Supporter

This victory is so sweet and I want to thank Senator Menendez for his support. I believe if we can help change the policies of the last eight years. Healthcare will be affordable for all Americans. George Bush is over and the time for middle class families to be put first has begun. Governor John Corzine was the next to address the crowd. Corzine started by saying, "How about that Barack Obama? Tonight we celebrate a victory for America, a victory in which hope triumphs over fear." Corzine also believed that New Jersey, like the rest of the country, was looking for a change. "We can do better in our families, in our schools, in our communities," he said. "We need a leader who cares enough to listen and understand the needs of all over the garden state. The loudest group in the ball room was a group of teenagers 17 and younger who all donated their time to get out the vote. Allen Garber, a fellow teen called "pretty much perfect" organized youth from all over New Jersey to garner support for Obama. Garber said, "Contacting 4,000 strangers in one day to get the word out about voting for Obama is the most rewarding thing. I truly believe we all contributed in Obama's victory in New Jersey."

Senator Rush Holt said he felt good about the turnout, but not just about Obama. He said that high the expected numbers for voter turnout were projected to be. I am excited about the high level of engagement. Voters who felt disenfranchised by the current administration, Corzine and politics do affect people lives. If President Bush showed the American people anything, he showed that he his decisions do affect the people. That is why I think Obama won." The President also talked about the need to move on from the election. "The new administration talks a lot about change. They now must take the steps necessary to rectify the division in America. The new administration should focus on how to expect to make a difference."
There are several notable comedies coming to Hawk TV this semester, and this week’s most original show, The Fishbowl, is a great example of the many different styles available. The show is about four friends who are trying to make it in the comedy world, and they use their experiences to help other aspiring comedians. They have a different format each week, from stand-up to sketch comedy, and they always do a great job of improvising on the spot.

One of the great things about The Fishbowl is that it’s completely student-run, and the performers are all Monmouth students who are passionate about comedy. They are always looking for new and interesting material, and they are willing to try anything to make it work.

The Fishbowl is also a great way to get involved in the Monmouth comedy scene. The show is open to all Monmouth students who are interested in performing, and they encourage anyone to come to a rehearsal and see if they like it. If you’re interested in getting involved, you can contact the producers of The Fishbowl, Brian Herrman, Jared Ballin, and Dynamic Duo, to find out more information.

The Fishbowl is a great example of how Monmouth can be a place for students to pursue their passions and develop new skills. It’s a testament to the creativity and talent that exist on campus, and it’s a reminder that sometimes you don’t need a big budget or a lot of resources to make something great happen.

STUDENT/CLUB EVENTS

Have you ever had one of the worst days of your life? The kind where everything just keeps piling up, and even if you think it couldn’t possibly get any more horrible than it is. Well, that’s the case for one of the main characters Danny Donahue played by Paul Rudd in the recently released comedy Role Models.

Directed by David Wain, the film focuses on two co-workers of an energy drink company, Danny (Rudd), a slacker who has conflicting views of his job, Wheeler, played by Seann William Scott, who would love nothing more than to be the Minotaur energy drink mascot for years to come. Danny on the other hand comes to the realization that he has not accomplished as much as he wanted to in his life thus far after Wheeler throws him a company party for spending 10 years with the company. This realization is the springboard for the chaos that erupts and forces the pair to serve 150 hours of community service with Sturdy Wings, a type of big blue bird with small wings that are designed to be left alone.

During this time, both Danny and Wheeler meet their “little”s. Danny is paired with Auggie Parks (Jared Keeso), an offbeat teenager who is some- what socially insensitive, and would rather spend time in his fantasy world, than making friends in the real world. He was placed in the program, because his mother and stepfather find it disturbing that Auggie takes part in a live action recreation of Renaissance based video games, in which real people take on the character of lords and ladies, kings and queens, and fight to the death with plastic swords and Styrofoam shields. Wheeler on the other hand is paired up with a younger member of sturdy wings, Ronnie Sinclair (Will Poulter), who was quoted as calling the entire film a “riot.”

What Ronnie lacks in stature, he certainly makes up in attitude. With hard hitting riffs and strong drums, the patented sound of Sturdy Wings is known throughout the New Jersey punk/pop-punk/hardcore genre. Their most recent album, “A Better Version of Me,” is currently available from the band’s website. The band is expected to put together an electronica third-party, but from the curiosity base, it is unknown whether these two songs will ever get along without each other.

This combination isn’t the only mash-up on the album. Other mash-ups include Taking Back Sunday vs. Norma Jean and Fall Out Boy vs. Dillinger Four for the chaos that erupts during the character of lords and ladies, kings and queens, and fight to the death with plastic swords and Styrofoam shields. Wheeler on the other hand is paired up with a younger member of stinky wings, Ronnie Sinclair (Will Poulter), who was quoted as calling the entire film a “riot.”

New members are always welcome; if you are interested in joining, please show up at any of our rehearsals or come out and join us at one of the games!

DELTA PHI EPSILON

This past Wednesday we had our annual event Lip Sync. Special thanks to all of our participants; everyone did an awesome job with their performances! Great job Jen and Christy for all your hard work and thanks to Sal for hosting. We had so much fun and we raised a lot of money for our cause Cystic Fibrosis. SIGMA TAU GAMMA Sigma Tau Gamma would like to congratulate the new brothers of our fraternity: Greg Kammerer, Brian Brooks, Dave Gramlich, Brandon Sheard, Anthony Chiappetta, and Bill Taylor of Theta Class. They were initiated into Sigma Tau Gamma this past Saturday evening, November 8th. Theta Class not only did an amazing job involving their new member education process, but also on a stellar performance, lip singing and dancing to a N’YSNC mix, at the Lip Sync hosted by Delta Phi Epsilon. Great job Thetas! Sig Tau’s 6 Flags fundraiser was also a huge success, as the brothers raised a combined $918.67. We would like to thank 6 Flags for having us fundraise and hope to return again next year. Sig Tau would also like to remind everyone that our 2nd annual Comedy Show is coming up as soon as we return from winter break in January 2009. More information will follow as to the exact date and time.

ALPHA SIGMA TAU

We would like to welcome our new sisters into the Beta Omega chapter: Anne Baron, Emily Chapman, Chelsey O’Connell, Gabby Perez, Dani Richards, and Nicole Sayben. Congratulations! Lloyd Group would also like to congratulate all our sorority chapters for all their hard work this fall. Congratulations to our latest edition Alpha Sigma. Welcome to the family!! Congrats Alpha Sigma!!! xo fabuloUS!:: Little I love your life! you are my sunshine! Sigma Tau Gamma’s Habitat for Humanity chapter plans to donate food and other supplies to Asbury Park Middle School, sometime in the upcoming weeks, due to a request for help in the area. We are always looking for new projects, even if it doesn’t have to do with building or painting. There are so many people out there in need, so we would love to put our time, money and volunteer- ing to a good cause. “I am really happy with how the day turned out, it felt great to know we were really helping out the employees by fixing up their office. We may not be able to build a house for someone right now, but some- times it’s the small projects that really make someone’s day,” said Vice President, Paige Sodano.

STUDY ABROAD CLUB

The Study Abroad Club has three main purposes: to prepare students planning to go abroad with all available resources, to act as a support system for students returning from abroad, and plan numerous domestic trips to share the fun of traveling with those who couldn’t go abroad. We are in the process of planning a weekend, spring or winter break trip, look for more information, all students are welcome. Our major projects for the semester include fundraisers to help send future students abroad and hopefully hosting a study abroad reunion at the end of next semester. So bring your trip and fundraising ideas to our meeting, Wednesday at 2:30 p.m., Fireside by Java Day. If you could not attend the meeting or would like more information, please email rasaro@monmouth.edu. Happy Traveling!

Aries • (Mar. 21 - April 19) - This week is a 6
Things are clearing up. See, you’ve learned something from the chaos that has been your life lately. Now use that knowledge as the weekend arrives. You do not need to know everything so stop worrying about it.

Taurus • (April 20 - May 20) - This week is a 7
This week is filled with surprises. Take them all in stride. Understanding one side of a situation is important but it is more important to realize you only know one side. By this weekend you are up for a social encounter or two. Make sure you spend some time listening to everyone. Take what you can from what they say; that does not mean believe it all.

Gemini • (May 21 - June 21) - This week is a 9
Sick and tired of waiting for everyone else to show their appraisal? Who cares? You’re starting to realize how awesome you did without everyone else’s comments. Good for you. Now as the weekend comes around go out and enjoy yourself. Have a blast and put yourself on the back.

Cancer • (June 22 - July 22) - This week is a 6
Today and tomorrow, really push through everything. By the weekend, you know what you need and, more importantly, what you do not. If you don’t need it, tell whoever is throwing it in your face to back off. As the weekend progresses, however, make sure you aren’t too harsh. Take time to really think about your responses. Sometimes you just need a bit more time. Ask for it.

Leo • (July 23 - Aug. 22) - This week is a 7
I know speaking your mind feels good and you’ve been doing a lot of it this week. It worked but now it’s time to ease up a bit. Speak carefully and think about what you are doing carefully. If you’re mad, don’t do anything. As the weekend comes around, you’re still talking about your emotions and feelings. You hate that but you have to. Don’t try to devalue the conversation too much though or else you’ll come across as defensive and you do not want to do that.

Virgo • (Aug 23 - Sept. 22) - This week is a 5
Things just got tough, didn’t they? Well, just because things are falling into place does not mean they are getting easier. You are, however, taking steps in the right direction. You feel things are coming together and it shows. If someone looks to you for advice on how to do that, help but do not preach.

Scorpio • (Oct. 23 - Nov. 21) - This week is a 9
Stop doubting yourself. Take a step back and look at your life through a new perspective. You are charming and intelligent. Work that charm to state your mind without stepping on toes. By the weekend, relax and mellow out. Spend time with those you love.

Sagittarius • (Nov. 22 - Dec. 21) - This week is a 6
Stop thinking about your life as though it’s not where you want or need to be. You are getting along fine and you will change and evolve when the times comes. The sooner you realize that, the better. This weekend, talk about what’s in your heart and spend time with loved ones. It will help you realize you do not need to change right this minute.

Capricorn • (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) - This week is an 8
This week organize your surroundings. This will have a profound effect on your mind. You will feel relaxed and ready to take on anything as the weekend arrives. Keep it light and have some fun.

Aquarius • (Jan. 20 - Feb. 18) - This week is an 8
You have so many opportunities opening up to you. Stop being so cynical and constantly rejecting them! If you aren’t sure what you want, consider that instead of just saying no! This weekend, take time to sort it all out.

Pisces • (Feb. 19 - Mar. 20) This week is a 9
That’s right, you really learned a lot. Take time to see it all out and really understand the steps you have taken. You are great at helping others this weekend but make sure you take an extra second to prove your point in a way your audience is receptive to. When all is said and done, take a deep breath and enjoy yourself.

Hawks Victorious on Senior Day, Sinisi Sets NEC Point Mark

On a rainy day that saw 13 seniors play their final game at Kessler field, the Hawks secured second place in the NEC with a 19-7 victory over Sacred Heart. Running back David Sinisi gave the Hawks’ fans something to look forward to for next season as he broke the NEC scoring record with his first of two touchdowns on the day early in the third quarter.

Coach Kevin Callahan couldn’t have been happier for his running back saying, “Today was a terrific effort for one of our captains. David was able to score two second half touchdowns that secured our effort for one of our captains. David Sinisi broke the NEC scoring record with his third quarter touchdown.

Sacred Heart came into the contest with the leagues best offense. However, the Hawks defense rose to the occasion holding the Pioneers to just 183 yards of total offense. A number that is an astounding 186 yards short of the Sacred Heart average on the season. Before facing off with the Blue and White the Pioneers averaged over 33 points a game. Coach Callahan was pleased with how his defense executed the game plan on the field. Callahan understood coming in just how good the Pioneers offense is saying, “Sacred Heart has a prolific passing attack that the defense kept under control. In the second half, the defense took control and was able to limit its opportunities.”

The game began with a nice drive put together by the Hawks offense. Quarterback Brett Burke came out firing to one of his favorite targets, John Nalbone for two 21 yard completions. The Pioneers defense bent but did not break, on 3rd and 11 from the 12 yard line, Bill O’Brien sacked Burke for a loss of 12. Kicker Fred Weingart was able to limit its opportunities.

The play of the drive came on a fourth and four from the SHU 33 yard line. On the Pioneer punt attempt Nick Romeo knocked the punter down when he dived to block the attempt. This gave the Sacred Heart drive new life. Fink took it from there as he dinked and dulked his way to the Monmouth one yard line. The Pioneers were looking at fourth and goal from the one yard line. On a gutty call from the head coach, Fink dropped back to pass and Jones for the touchdown. Sacred Heart was now up 7-0 late in the second quarter after an impressive nine minute drive.

The third quarter began in a defensive struggle as the teams touchdown run. After a Weingart extra point attempt was knocked through the uprights the Hawks had a 13-7 advantage.

On the ensuing drive for the Pioneers they tried to retake the lead through the air. However, on third and eight from the SHU 36 yard line David Kennedy broke through the line for the Hawks and recorded the sack. The drive came to an end after just three plays led to another Derek Marks punt giving the home team the ball back under two minutes from their last possession.

Burke led the Hawks down the field with first down passes to Nalbone, Salomon, and Dowens respectively. As they reached the red zone it was David Sinisi time as he scored the touchdown on a 12 yard carry. The Hawks decided to try to make it a 21-7 advantage by going for two but the Burke pass fell short, leaving the lead at 19-7 early in the fourth quarter.

Fink struggled to get anything going for his offense as he faced constant pressure from the Monmouth defense. Kevin Walsh on third and ten from the Hawk 44 yard line was able to force Fink to throw a ball away on the quarterback hurry. This left the Sacred Heart offense in need of a desperate score on a late conversion. Wide receiver Steve Tedesco was in the area but the Fink pass came up short.

The Hawks defense made their second drive of the quarter. On a 12 play 65 yard march down the field, David Sinisi became the all time leading scorer in the NEC with a 3 yard touchdown run. After a Weingart extra point attempt was knocked through the uprights the Hawks had a 19-7 advantage.

The senior's have meant so much to this program and it was great to send them off with a victory in their final home game,” said Callahan, who celebrated his 95th career win against Sacred Heart.

Former Hawk and current Dallas Cowboy wide receiver Miles Austin was in the stands for the game. Austin became the first former Monmouth player to earn a NFL contract when he was signed to the Cowboys in 2006. After three seasons as a starter with the Blue and White, Austin left MU as the career leader in catches, receiving yards and touchdown catches.

Monmouth now heads to Duquesne to wrap up the season next Saturday and look to go 7-4 on the season.
Men’s Soccer Captures Fourth Straight NEC Regular Season Title

PRESS RELEASE

The Monmouth University men’s soccer team won their fourth straight NEC Men’s Soccer Championships on the road today and rose up to the top seed. Their backs were against the wall from mentioning age as a factor this season; when the sophomore from Long Island, New York, not too many outsiders were predicting this when he isn’t being occupied by football or basketball. "We had a terrific season with the likes of Jordan, and battled like a champion with Graciano Brito of Quinnipiac University. The Hawks, who were eliminated in the opening round of the 2007 NCAA Tournament, are set to take on fourth-seeded Mount St. Mary’s on Friday at 11:00 am.

"We are a very young club; to be able to win this championship is a testament to their ability and character. The Hawks were able to tie in the 80th minute when senior midfielder Chris Duhon from the Bulls. The Hawks, who are the first NEC team to win four straight regular season titles, did so without having a single player win the Brine/Meade Rookie of the Week during the regular season. In last year’s championship, Barbieri has been named the Brine/Meade Rookie of the Week. The Hawks were only shutout once this season by conference opponent Dartmouth College, which is the top-seeded goal against CCSU this past Sunday.

The most surprising development in the league was the Monmouth University men’s soccer team. Head Coach Men’s Soccer ROBERT MCCOURT

"This is absolutely an incredible achievement."

A Word on Sports in the Knick of Time

Storming in to the first games of the season, The New York Knicks are one of the NBA’s annual contenders that seem to be breaking all of their journey to restore the historic franchise. There were still plenty of questions about their chances to win the championship, but if anyone was ready for the task, Knicks faithful believed D’Antoni was the answer to their prayers.

D’Antoni has bounced around quite a bit in the NBA. He has worked with the New York Knicks, the Memphis Grizzlies, and as an assistant with the Boston Celtics, San Antonio Spurs, and as an assistant with the Denver Nuggets, before finding a successful home in Phoenix.

D’Antoni revived the struggling Suns franchise and averaged more than fifty wins four seasons in a row. D’Antoni’s name was being mentioned as a top level coach, and it just so happened that the New York Knicks were in search of someone to lead their troops in to battle. Newly appointed President of Basketball Operations, Donnie Walsh, is known for his aggressive style and success. Walsh moved fast to acquire the sought after head coach. Walsh achieved his goal by taking their journey to restore the historic franchise. The Hawks went into the NEC tournament as the third seed and faced off against the second seeded CCSU. The Monmouth Hawks which have previously beaten Monmouth during the regular season 3-2, it was a much maligned way to end the season for the Blue and White. D’Antoni did the only shutout once this season by conference opponent Dartmouth College, which is the top-seeded goal against CCSU this past Sunday.

The first scoring chance of the game came from the Hawks with one on one with All-NEC First Team goalkeaper Erin Herd; Lopez fired a shot left and was saved by Herd to keep the score at 0-0. Shortly after the Hawks scoring chance CCSU took the lead, with a goal from global rookie Honey Caneled the second goal of the game from an unmarked player. Two minutes later Caneled scored her second goal of the game off an unmarked player.

Twenty four minutes into the game the Hawks get another chance across another scoring chance but again couldn’t put the ball passed the goalie. Lopez was denied once again by the All-NEC goalkeeper Herd. Central Connecticut State took top on the seeded Long Island, upset the favorites by a score of 1-0 to take the NEC Championship.
