On The Record: Meet our Members!

What members had this to say about their experience.

The Outlook editorial staff members 2015-2016

"Although I am a writer, I find it rather difficult to properly piece together just the right words to truly express how thankful I am for the guidance that I received from Professor John Morano and my family of editorial board members."

-Briana McCabe: Editor in Chief, Class of 2015

"The Outlook for me meant knowing I had a future beyond my college education. It's such a supportive community that I know I can always return to."

-Casey Wolfe: Editor in Chief, Class of 2016

"Becoming Editor-in-Chief for The Outlook provided me with the skills to make myself marketable. If it wasn't for The Outlook, I would never have learned how to perfect my time management or write eloquently.."

-Maggie Zelinka: Editor in Chief, Class of 2015

"Joining The Outlook is an experience that will not only leave you with professional skills for your future but great memories as well. You will get a feel for a real newsroom and meet amazing people along the way."

-Jachlyn Kouefati: Editor in Chief, Class of 2014

"Joining The Outlook has allowed me to gain professional experience within my field as well as meet and work with several of my peers, whom have become my best friends at college."

-Kelly Brockett: Advertising Manager, Class of 2014

The Outlook Profile

The Outlook is Monmouth University's student-run newspaper. The Outlook has been the main source of news for Monmouth since 1933. Located in the Jules L. Plangere Jr.
Center for Communication room 260, we welcome students of all majors to participate in the rewarding experience of working for a college newspaper.

In 2016, The Outlook launched its new website, outlook.monmouth.edu where the entire paper is published in an online format. Starting in 2012, The Outlook began offering web exclusive content on the website.

The Outlook won The American Scholastic Press Association's "Most Outstanding University Newspaper" award along with
"First place with Merits" in 2010, 2013 & 2014.
